WHAT NAVY D ABROAD IS NEW TALE

SEC. ROOSEVELT DISCLOSED UNPUBLISHED FACTS OF OVERSEAS ACTIVITIES DURING THE WAR.

RADIO STATION SOLD

French Buy Bordeaux Wireless; Establishments in European Waters Practically Demobilized; Claims Settled.

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Feb. 24.—Practical demobilization of all the United States naval establishments in European waters; the sale of the great LaFayette wireless station at Bordeaux to the French government at a price of approximately $4,000,000 and many hitherto unpublished facts of American naval activities in the war, were announced today by Assistant Secretary Roosevelt who arrived with President Wilson on the George Washington.

For the last month, Mr. Roosevelt has been in Europe denouncing the naval forces liquidating contracts and settling claims. The British and French governments have met the United States half way in the settlement of claims and disposal of materials.

On the trip over Mr. Roosevelt disclosed to the officers and men of the George Washington how the United States had spent more than $30,000,000 laying the mine barrage against submarines in the North Sea and how by the navy offensive which the United States brought into the war the submarines were driven from the coasts and harbor mouths out to sea, where their deadly work would be more difficult and how the entry of the navy into the war initiated an effective campaign against the U-boats which previously had been conducting the offensive.

"I've realized," said Mr. Roosevelt, "that the American navy had 54 short bases of various kinds, in European waters and the Azores, including wireless stations, hospitals, base flying bases, although the majority were naval aviation bases from which more than 200 American seaplanes operated. We had and are still have on these bases 500 men on the ships operating from them. We leased docks and buildings and in addition constructed hundreds of hangars, piers, hospitals, storeshouses and other buildings."

50,000 Sailors Sent Home
"Nearly fifty thousand officers and men now have been sent home and all the flying stations and bases with a few exceptions have been evacuated. All material of future value has been sent home. Portable houses, power plants and other buildings have been sold to the Red Cross and the army and what remained of lumber and other salvage material has been sold to the British and French governments."

"The great LaFayette radio station near Bordeaux was intended to insure communication between Washington and the army and navy in case the cable systems were put out of commission, or interfered with by German submarines. It has eight towers and could communicate with the United States at night. It was built by the navy, I arranged with the French government that we shall complete the station, which is two-thirds finished, and they will then take it over. It cost us, about twenty-two million francs."

If the child was born in October the tax paying parent is allowed only exemption or one fourth of the $200 normal exemption.

The "Tiger" Wounded is Still the "Tiger"

Premier Clemenceau of France.

The fighting spirit of Premier Georges Clemenceau of France has rightfully earned for him the title of "Tiger." He has withstood the attacks, verbal and violent, of political enemies through nearly half a century. He is showing that same spirit in fighting to thwart the attempt of an assassin to take his life. Three bullets struck him, one piercing his lungs. He refuses, however, to stay in bed and insists on seeing his personal friends and officials of the peace conference.

RUSSIAN CHAOS IS GERMANY'S VICTORY SAYS AMBASSADOR

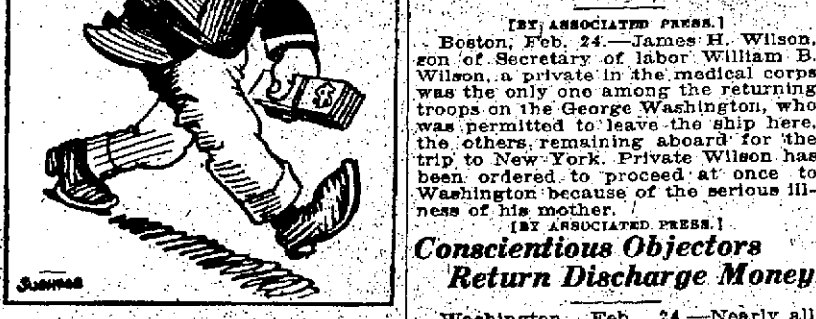

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Feb. 24.—Ambassador D. R. Francis, home from Russia for the first time in two years, had several conferences with President Wilson while coming over, on the George Washington and made several recommendations for action on the part of the allied and American governments for meeting the Bolshevik menace and resorting Russia to the family of nations.

Mr. Francis will probably disclose later when he appears before one of the congressional committees. "A reign of terror instituted by the Bolsheviks with the purpose of maintaining themselves in power, is prevailing in central and northern Russia," said the ambassador, "the outrages they have committed are incredible. I think it impossible to re-orient Europe with chaos prevailing in Russia. In fact, with Germany practically uninvolved industrially I am persuaded that if a peace is negotiated with Bolshevik rule prevailing in Russia, Germany in twenty years or a decade, will be stronger than she was at the beginning of the war. She is familiar with the generation has been studying it to influence it. If this turns out Germany, instead of having been defeated, will have gained a victory."

Germans Ask Neutral Food Agents Be Named

(By Associated Press.)
London, Feb. 24.—Thirty-six members of scientific and medical faculties of German universities and 22 mayors of leading cities in that country have addressed a joint appeal to President Wilson and university faculties in neutral countries urging the speedy appointment of a commission of experts from the Scandinavian states, Holland, Switzerland, and Spain, for the purpose of studying the food situation in Germany. Mr. Wilson is asked to designate an American medical expert as an observer member of the commission in which entente countries will be given the privilege of representation if they so choose.

LEWIS SUPPORTS LEAGUE; ANSWERS SENATORS' ATTACKS

DEMOCRATIC WHIP COMES TO DEFENSE OF WILSON'S
STAND ON SOCIETY OF NATIONS.

CHARGE ANTAGONISM

Refusal to Grant President's Request to Refrain From Discussion Until His Arrival, is Scored.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Feb. 24.—Speaking in the support of the proposed league of nations, Senator Lewis of Illinois, democratic whip, declared the league would not contravene the Monroe doctrine, and broadly intimated that personal and political antagonism to President Wilson lay behind the opposition in congress.

Senator Lewis replied specifically to recent speeches by Senators Borah of Idaho, republican, and Reed of Missouri, democrat.

It was asserted, were based on false fears and designed to awaken prejudice. Demanding that opponents present their plan for world peace, he asked: "Have you any? Is there only the voice of veto from you all on what ever plan—merely that it is proposed by Wilson?"

"If Woodrow Wilson were a Roman Catholic charged by a Cicero with conspiracy to surrender his hand to the enemy of his country, and Taft a modern Aaron Burr they could not have been more violently opposed to his plan than I have been by leaders of the opposition to the league of nations," said Mr. Lewis.

Nothing so proved the animosity to Wilson's success in any degree as the refusal to grant him his request, called as he sailed for America, to postpone discussion of the constitution of the league until he should arrive and explain the circumstances of its formation.

"It is said that the document violates our policy against alliances with foreign nations," he opposed by Washington. I answer that the document prevents what Washington opposed—partial alliances by America with any foreign nation.

"The constitution of the league prohibits the possibility of a political alliance with any foreign nation, power by balancing against the European, the Asiatic, Japan and all South America."

"The army and navy of the United States is provided for," Senator Lewis added, "in the charter by words, as of a kind she shall by her situation and peculiar geography, naturally adopt and personally control."

Of the charge that the league would violate the Monroe doctrine, Senator Lewis said:

"It was to prevent this very assumption that section ten of the charter pledges all of the governments in the league to resist aggression by any one state or government of any kind."

In reply to assertions by Senators Borah and Reed that the United States would be out-voted, Senator Lewis said:

"There are 11 republics of America with 11 votes. Then if all Britain's colonies each have a vote, the United States with Central and South America, taken together, the Europeans on any American policy nine to five—assuming only the larger republics are admitted to the council."

In this connection Senator Lewis declared his personal conviction that there was "danger of dishonorable consolidation of the European nations."

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU MAY END; CHAMBER COMMERCE PROTESTS

Protests against the proposed discontinuance of the United States Employment service were telegraphed today from the Chamber of Commerce and the National Labor Union.

Robert M. La Follette and Irvin J. Lenroot, Representative Cooper, and to the chairman of the house appropriations committee. A copy of the telegram was forwarded to the Federal acting federal director of the service in the state.

Word came late Saturday that appropriation for the continuance of the service had been taken from the sundry civil service bill, which has been reported back from the committee. This means that the service would normally cease on June 30.

Would Close April 1
Deficiency appropriations covering the period from April 1 to June 30, have, however, not been made, and the service would be taken from the introduction of an amendment, the service would cease operations at the end of next month.

Janesville contractors and business men in general expressed themselves as strongly opposed to discontinuance of the service at this time.

"The importance of the federal employment bureau will be greater for the next few months than at any time," said J. P. Cullen, Janesville contractor, this morning. "The network of government agencies provided according to law for the avoidance of labor unrest."

Many Interest Protest.
Louis Avery, chairman of the Community Labor board, is expected to withdraw his protest to the proposed discontinuance tomorrow. The Knights of Columbus and the Eagles have already expressed themselves as strongly opposed to the proposed change.

Will make an effort this afternoon to have the city and the Red Cross bureau voice similar protests.

It is probable that an amendment including the employment agency appropriation will be offered in the house. The Chamber of Commerce protest was as follows:

"Chamber of Commerce indorses work of United States Labor bureau and wishes you to support appropriation for continuing same. It is a vital necessity here."

WILSON WELCOMED HOME AT BOSTON; HUGE CROWD HEARS HIS FIRST ADDRESS

Reception Fully as Enthusiastic as Any Overseas;
New Englanders Crowd Hall to Hear
Message of President.

(By Associated Press.)
Boston, Feb. 24.—President Wilson arrived at Mechanics hall at 2:30 o'clock. As his party reached the outer door, batteries of the railway yards at the rear of the hall fired a presidential salute of 21 guns. Inside the hall the band struck up "Hail to the Chief."

The preliminaries were brief. John McCormick sang the "Star Spangled Banner." Mayor Peters welcomed the guests in the name of the city and Gov. Coughlin extended the greetings of the commonwealth.

Mayor Peters said that Boston rejoiced at the opportunity to receive one who had been a leader in the noblest cause of the nation for internationalism of the world.

The biggest roof in Boston stretched over the holders of tickets for the address of President Wilson. Of 160,000 applications, 120,000 gained admission of these 2,000 stood in the second balcony which is not provided with seats.

As Mr. Wilson rose to speak the crowd cheered and shouted. He smiled and bowed repeatedly. The president began by asking the audience if they could understand he was as glad to see them as they were to see him, and to express his appreciation of his reception.

Says U. S. is Trusted.
"The greatest thing I have to report to you," said he, "is that this great country of ours is trusted throughout the world."

"The men who are in conference in Paris realize they are not masters of their fate. They are men who are men and that no man will dare go home from that conference and report anything less than is expressed."

"Speaking of the slow progress of the conference, the president reminded his audience of the complexity of the problems."

"What we are doing," he said, "is to hear the whole case from those most interested."

Sees Tears of Hope.
"I have seen tears in the eyes of men there pleading for a national ambition, but they were tears of ardent hope."

"There is no nation in Europe that suspects the course of the United States. Was there ever such a wonderful thing as this?"

"I would not have you understand that the men who represent the other nations are disinterested. Quite the contrary."

The European statesmen, he said, when unable to agree were to resort to the nation as the "friend of mankind."

Soldiers Welcome.
To illustrate his point, the president related that American soldiers were welcomed in all the European countries.

"If I were to regard the pride I feel, a personal pride, I would be the most stupid man in the world."

"I have been searching for the fundamental fact that has brought Europe to believe in us. She seemed for the first three years to believe in us, but we could make more by staying out than going in."

"Then suddenly the whole verdict was reversed. It was when they saw that America was not only a land of peace, but a land of peace."

"I have seen the people of Europe are buoyed up in the hope that all the nations of the world shall unite their moral and physical forces that right shall prevail. What would happen if we could make more by staying out than going in?"

"The nations of the world have set their heads now to do a great thing, and they are not going to stop short of this. The people of Europe are buoyed up in the hope that all the nations of the world shall unite their moral and physical forces that right shall prevail. What would happen if we could make more by staying out than going in?"

"Every nation will be set up as a hostile camp again and the men at the peace conference will go home with their heads upon their shoulders because they have failed. We would leave on the peace table nothing but a modern scrap of paper."

Speaking of hopes and aspirations of the people of Europe for peace, the president said he was pained to the United States as the "friend of mankind" the president said he had no more doubt of the verdict of America in this matter than he had doubt of the blood that is in me.

CHANGE IN ELECTION BILL ASKED; NOLAN OPPOSES LIFE FUND

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, Feb. 24.—The repeal of the law providing for the circulation of nomination papers in order to legally become a candidate for office is sought in a bill which has been offered in the lower house by Assemblyman John D. Doolittle, Milwaukee. The measure will be given a hearing Thursday afternoon. Doolittle claims that nomination papers are useless and that thousands of people sign these papers with no intention of supporting the candidate.

Nolan Opposes Life Fund.
The question as to whether state life insurance has been a success in Wisconsin will be thrust out before the assembly committee on insurance and banking, Tuesday afternoon. Gov. Philip has taken a position that the state life fund and law should be repealed. Carrying out this executive suggestion Assemblyman T. S. Nolan, Janesville, has introduced a bill for a repeal of the law. On the other side of the question Assemblyman Masakowski, Milwaukee, claims that state life insurance has never been adequately backed by the state.

The assembly committee on agriculture, Tuesday, will give a hearing to the Bennett resolution providing for a legislative investigation of the International Harvester company. The idea back of the resolution is to investigate the feasibility of manufacturing farm machinery at the state penitentiary at Waupun. This resolution has already passed the senate but has not yet come to a hearing in the assembly. On the same day the elections committee of the assembly will give a hearing to the Doolittle bill to submit the question of equal suffrage to a vote of the people.

Compensation Bill Change Asked.
Assemblyman W. R. Olson's bill to bring every employee of labor in the state within the terms of the workmen's compensation law is up for hearing before the assembly labor committee Wednesday. Thursday the transportation committee will give a hearing to the Kandutsch bill for the relinquishment of federal control of the telephone system. The Jennings bill to create a new board of education and public welfare, Thursday.

MERCHANT MARINE LEGISLATION ASKED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 24.—Discussing the American merchant marine problem in the senate today, Senator Ransdell of Louisiana predicted that within a few months the shipping board would own one half the ocean going merchant vessels in the United States over 500 gross tons, and that by 1920 ship construction in this country would have increased the total tonnage under the American flag to approximately 19,000,000 tons.

"These figures," the senator said, "lead to the conclusion that from a qualitative point of view, the problem of the American merchant marine is solved."

Of the predicted 19,000,000 tons the Louisiana senator estimated 14,525,000 tons would be owned by the shipping board. As the authority of the board to operate vessels expires by limitation six months after the formal proclamation of peace, he said, it was essential that legislation be provided whereby the operation may be continued.

Stating his opposition to a government subsidy Senator Ransdell outlined three possible solutions of the merchant marine problem as follows: First, complete government ownership and operation of all ships, docks, wharves and terminals, on the same principle under which Rumania and Belgium operated their shipping before the war; second, the ownership and operation through a public corporation controlled by the government under the same method by which the Erie canal is operated; third, government ownership of the vessels and the employment of private agencies for their operation.

STATE POLICE FORCE ON HIGHWAYS ASKED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Feb. 24.—A state police force, similar to the state constabulary in Canada is proposed in a bill which has been offered in the lower house by Assemblyman W. D. Chilsen, Merrill. The bill provides that a chief of police of the department shall be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate for a term of four years. He shall receive a salary of $5,000 annually. The bill then declares that the state police force shall consist of two troops, each composed of one captain, whose salary shall be $1,800, one lieutenant, whose salary shall be $1,500, four sergeants, whose salary shall be $1,200 each, and 60 privates whose salary shall be $1,000 each. The members shall each receive an increase in salary of $50 per annum for continuous service after two years, and an additional $50 per annum for continuous service after four years.

"This force would in no way conflict with the present police force or city police officials," declares Assemblyman W. D. Chilsen. "This force would patrol the rural district and principally highways and waterways of the state and enforce all laws regarding fire, fish, game, forestry, public health, liquor, tobacco, roads, bridges and automobiles."

By the terms of the bills there would be an additional force of five detachments.

Hunting Souvenirs Is Consuming Passion With Americans in Europe

(By Victor McNaught)
(Special Correspondence)
Paris, Feb. 24.—There is a saying here, "the effect that the great war has had on the invader, that Britain was influenced by a desire to maintain her commercial and maritime supremacy, and that America came in for souvenirs. This is not a French jest, it bears the American label, and is based upon shrewd observation of a national trait."

One of our New York cartoonists a few weeks ago made a picture of a patrician figure of a doughboy, coming home without any souvenirs at all. His kid brother was frankly disgusted, his father was annoyed, and even his gentle mother was disappointed. On his chest he wore a military medal, awarded him for distinguished conduct on the field, but no one paid any attention to that.

The fame of this cartoon has spread all over France, and where you find a doughboy or a sailor, or an officer of the navy, you find an American who is determined not to disappoint his friends.

Prospective tourists probably will begin to grieve over the likelihood that France will be swept bare of souvenirs before a very practical state department will issue passports to them so that they may take their part of the spoils. There are some grounds for this; the trophies are being snapped up very fast. However, there may be a crumb of comfort in the knowledge that as the old souvenirs are being snapped up, new ones may take their places, and the new ones may not cost so much. The present market price of iron crosses, for example, is about 75 francs, of $15 each. As soon as a new factory in Metz begins capacity production, it is quite likely that an iron cross fancier may give himself a treat for a franc. And as for Boche trench helmets, a foundry in France is getting ready to turn out at a rate that will make Henry Ford jealous.

We shall now proceed to a strictly veracious tale of the experiences of a group of newspaper men, who came to France from various high motives, and who have lived up to some of them. As might have been expected to the temptation to get some souvenirs to take home, so that they may prove to their friends how horrible war can be.

The curtain first rises on the village of Chateau Thierry, about fifty miles east of Paris, now famous as the place where the Seventh Machine gun battalion of the Third American division held the bridge over the Marne against the whole Hun army, and stopped the drive on Paris.

We discover our group of journalists outside the Hotel du Cygne (Hotel of the Swan) awaiting the call to midday lunch. Small boys gather. They have a vocabulary of but one word in English, but that word suffices for Americans. It is "helmet," pronounced with an inquiring inflection. The party make signs manifesting interest.

The boys scamper away, and quickly return with a Boche helmet, well perforated. The head salesman illustrates the history of the helmet. "Z-i-i-n-n-g!" he exclaims, making a noise like a bullet. Then he starts to fall over backward, just as the poor Boche may have done. The helmet is snapped up at five francs.

Close examination of the perforations brings a growing doubt as to their genuineness. They are not round unfortunately, but the captain says that a shell splinter might have made them.

The party was hardly started on madame's beautiful anecdote, when she comes to the helmet with another helmet. The journalist near the door and the captain go out to inspect it. No bullet holes this time; just a plain, honest helmet with a sweat band, a chin strap, and everything. Five francs buys it. Then one of the boys digs up a finger ring taken from a German prisoner. The German had made it himself from aluminum, with a setting of a small imperial crown in gold and red enamel. A bargain at four francs.

The scene changes to Bar-le-Duc (pronounced Barley-Duke). The city is a railroad town of some importance, and the main American consular office here while passing through. It is Sunday evening. In the gloaming of the dimly-lighted streets, two Americans may be discovered prowling around in search of trophies. They are a couple of patent leather, brass-bound dress helmets, the erstwhile property of German officers. A party of doughboys, unwilling to all the helmets they have accumulated during the war, offer the strangers to the M. P.'s office just across the bridge. The M. P.'s have three helmets, which they would part with, reluctantly of course, for 250 francs. Ah, but they're good-looking the M. P.'s! Says the consularist: "We'll give you 75 francs each for two of them." Very sadly the M. P.'s hand over their treasures.

"Won't Harvey and Lem be sore when they see what we've got?" demands the modern Tom Sawyer of the present day Huck Finn. As an afterthought: "Of course, though we'll help them get some like ours."

In the railroad transportation office over by the depot, the M. P.'s are to be had, so neither plod the two shoppers. The R. T. O. doughboys bring out for inspection some more of the patent leather helmets, two German bayonets, and a white belt buckle inscribed "Gott Mit Uns." A field gray German cap, piped in red, with colored buttons on the front, an Austrian knob-kerry, which is a brutal looking club with iron studs all over it, a white patent-leather officer's belt, and other desirable things.

"How much for the patent leather helmets?" demands Tom Sawyer. "Fifty francs," says the doughboy salesman. Tom and Huck both groan inwardly at their hasty folly in paying 75 francs for the same darned things only five minutes before. But they brighten up in the presence of new opportunities, and buy victrola records at low prices. In no time the belt buckle, the German cap, the knob-kerry, and one of the bayonets are theirs. Also an iron cross, which Tom Sawyer gets for 50 francs. Instead of 75 when he tells a hard-luck tale of how he was stung on the helmet. The day before, Harvey had bought an iron cross from a German prisoner for 45 francs.

Presently Harvey and Lem walk in, each carrying proudly a patent leather helmet. "How much did you pay for them?" demands Tom and Huck in a breath. "Fifty francs," they reply, happily in concert, to the accompaniment of more inward groans of shame. There are tales of an M. P., a veritable wizard at souvenir trading, who has made $9,000. He walks in, and when confronted with the accusation, admits it, and says "Why?" he remarks, "I sold five patent leather helmets the other day to a naval lieutenant for 4,000 francs. I didn't ask that much. I told him they were terribly scarce, and he made a bid. I took him up." The M. P. has a handful of German rings which he offers for 25 francs. Huck Finn buys one for five francs.

The itinerant newspaper man next appears at a chateau north of Verdun, where a kind-hearted lieutenant bestows upon them German rifles, and trench helmets, and other things. A dump in the Argonne, he has sold a German machine gun belt, loaded with 600 cartridges, a ferocious looking trench knife, German rifle cartridge cases, three-inch shell cases, bayonets, and other plums. Next morning back in Paris after a sleepless night sitting up in a train, behold our party seeking a taxi. Halfway-eyed, broken backed, with aching arms, they stagger along under their loads. Horribly tired, but happy; are they not successful?

(The next article will deal with practical phases of the peace settlement.)

40 Eggs Instead of

Mr. Guthrie Made His Egg Profit. Gets Lots of Chicks Too.

"When I read about Don Sung, I was getting 11 to 14 eggs a day. I tried it and my eggs increased to 40 a day and sometimes better. I heartily recommend it to all poultry raisers. I have 200 little chicks now, and I can get 100 in the next 15 days."—C. A. Guthrie, Nokuna, Kan.

Mr. Guthrie wrote this letter last spring after using only $1.50 worth of Don Sung. His hens laid four times as many eggs, and the eggs hatched better. It paid him and will pay you. At our risk, accept this offer: Give your hens Don Sung and watch results in one month. If you do not find that Don Sung pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organ, and is also a good tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it does not get eggs on no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your drug store or poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents today for a trial package by mail pre-paid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 249 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Feb. 24, 1879.—J. H. Kinney's horse took a lively run on West Milwaukee street Saturday morning. In its course it tried to run over a sleigh in which Nels Carlson was seated. By some seeming miracle Mr. Carlson was saved. The horse succeeded in scattering the cutter to which he was attached, leaving it strewn all along the line of march.

About 75 friends gathered at Judge Conger's residence Saturday for a social evening. Ample and toothsome refreshments were served, and with pleasant games made the affair highly enjoyable.

John Harlow, son of Capt. E. G. Harlow, has been appointed mail agent on the Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad. He formerly lived here and was an employee of Davies Bros. for three or four years.

The entertainment given by the Janesville Guards last Friday evening was in all respects a success. Mrs. St. John, Mrs. H. A. Smith, Mrs. Conrad, Mrs. Moseley, along with Prof.

Ticomb at the organ, furnished delightful music. Miss Dolly Patten attended the governor's reception at Madison last Friday.

Father Doy's burned arm has not yet healed sufficiently to allow him to attend to all his duties. Father Fagin officiated at high mass yesterday in his place.

Miss Helen R. Porter and her pupils give a musical recital this evening in her room in the Lappen block.

Milton—Thursday afternoon Milton was visited by the fire flood on a small scale. The house occupied by W. E. Bedient, on the nursery farm of J. C. Plumb & Son, took fire behind the chimney among some papers, and before it could be extinguished burned quite a hole in the side of the building. In the room where the fire started was all the clothing of the family, which was burned. Although the loss to Mr. Bedient does not aggregate a very large sum of money, it is a great loss to him. The damage to the building is estimated at $50. No insurance.

NEED OF LEADERSHIP IN CHURCHES TOLD BY VISITING PASTOR

A stirring message emphasizing leadership in the church, was given yesterday morning at the service of the Federated church by Rev. Ozora Davis of the Chicago Theological seminary. The sermon was charged with the vigorous personality of the man. He brought out particularly the thought that the churches and ministry of the present day, must be dead in earnest to keep up with the great events of the times.

He took up the topic "The Leadership of the Church in the New Era, and our Responsibility in the Matter."

He pointed out the fact that the church is to fulfill its great mission in the work of reconstruction, there must be some permanent basis where all can meet in common, and that this basis must be a common need, and a common task, rather than a common creed or ritual.

He brought out the idea that the paramount problem today was so to inspire men and women that they would properly take care of the church work, could be assured.

He believed it "was not necessary for one to agree in institutions, but to be able to do anything worth while." He showed that there was a serious lack of education and women to carry on the church needs. He said that in Illinois alone there were 343 Congregational churches and of these 121 were not being used.

He said now 25 new recruits of men and women both to go to Turkey, to assist in the work of reconstruction. Two hundred had just sailed for that country, under the leadership of George B. White.

"The Church of Rome," he said, "realized this, and all the education of the children toward this end. They entered into a definite plan to secure recruits for the church from the families belonging to it, and agreed to finance the education and superintend the welfare of those showing an inclination to enter the church."

This same idea ought he thought, to be in the program of all the orthodox churches.

He felt that it was not worth while for a man to go into a small town, and try and make his way with only a few churches, but if he could go in there and combine them all under one leadership, he might do something big in a community proposition.

He repeated considerable merriment by his statement that a boy who would make a good pirate, would make a good minister. He felt that if we could have a boy who would be successful in the work of men and that fine, strong, quick and gracious girls were those best fitted for social welfare work.

"The trouble with the present time," he said, "is that people have lost the passion and enthusiasm of their great mission, and have let their church work, which was given to them by God, be a worthy motto for his subject."

In the evening a concert program was given which included "The Church of the Future," by Mendelssohn; "Sweet Moments," by Donizetti; and "With Sheathed Swords," by Costa, all sung by the choir. The male voices sang "A Prayer," by Paul and Arthur Schumann; and "Comfort Ye," from the Messiah. Mrs. J. L. Wilcox also gave a vocal solo. Improvised, a Scotch poem by Mr. Schoof and Miss Dunne, "Night Hymn at Sea," by Goring Thomas. Sydney Bliss played a violin selection, "Cavatina," by Raff.

For the first time in several weeks the firemen of Janesville rested on Sunday. As a rule there is generally one alarm on Sunday to call out the men, but yesterday the call failed to come in.

VETERAN OF 2 WARS IN ARMY 26 YEARS

A veteran of two wars and with a record of 26 years in the United States army, Sgt. William Thurber spent the week-end in the city the guest of friends. He enlisted in the regular army in 1893, saw service in China in the Boxer uprising, fought in the Spanish-American war, and was also one of the first 10,000 men who went to France with Pershing. He also saw service in the Philippines and at other points.

He wears three wound stripes and one gold star showing he was one of Pershing's Crusaders. He was gassed severely twice and wounded in France. As a member of the 26th Infantry, first division, he saw the first American killed and taken prisoner. He later killed Quentin Roosevelt, was the aviator of his company.

Sgt. Thurber originally came from North Crandon, near Fond du Lac. He arrived in Janesville several weeks ago and has been stationed at Camp Grant since, where he has been assigned a "desk job" in the personnel office. In a few weeks he will be entitled to return home and will probably retire from the service.

WEEKLY NEWSPAPER EDITORS ORGANIZE

Thirty-one publishers of weekly newspapers representing all parts of the state met at Madison, Saturday and perfected the organization of the Wisconsin Weekly League. By-laws were adopted, officers elected, and active preparation was made for the prosecution of business. Over 80 weekly publishers have signified their willingness to become members of the association.

"The new association is modeled after the Wisconsin Daily league, consisting of 25 daily newspapers, which have been successfully operating for the past 10 years. With the formation of the new weekly league, the state will be represented by a sufficient number of newspapers in both associations to cover it thoroughly for the advertiser. Eventually the entire field will be covered with the addition of new members to the weekly organization, so that the advertiser may carry his publication to the greatest number of available readers without loss of time and in the same simplified manner that has made the Wisconsin Daily league successful."

The "one-order one-payment" plan makes for quick action with a minimum amount of trouble. The two organizations will doubtless plan to work together to develop more advertising for Wisconsin papers.

ALMIGHTY DOLLAR TO REIGN SUPREME HERE WEDNESDAY

Wednesday is "Dollar Day." Merchants over the entire city have rearranged stock, cut prices and made special bargains in preparation for what is expected to be one of the greatest sales days of the year.

Because of the expected advantage of inducing new trade into their stores, merchants have arranged for the sale of standard goods at a margin which would ordinarily not be profitable. Odd lot wear have goods, sweaters, and neck wear have been sold well below original cost.

Theaters, dye works, and candy shops have entered into the spirit of the citywide sale. The offering of the citywide sale, goods that would ordinarily cost 40 cents per pound may be secured three pounds for a dollar.

Twenty-five per cent additional discounts are being granted at some of the downtown houses to the man who buys a dollar. One of the banks has offered to furnish the first dollar to start every newly born babe on the road to wealth.

It's dollar day at this place, and dollar day at that place. The "almighty dollar" reigns supreme on Wednesday.

"If elected I shall use my best efforts to see that my district and supporters are not disappointed."

MINISTERS DISCUSS EVANGELICAL WORK

Janesville is the mecca for ministers and officials of the Congregational denomination today. A conference being held at the local church to formulate plans relating to the evangelization of the city.

About twenty from outside the city are here to attend the conference and many of the local pastors have attended the different sessions. Some of those here are Rev. Almon Stevens of the Second Congregational church, Beloit and Rev. Douglas C. Graf of the Grindley Congregational church; Rev. Bennett of the Shopiere Federated church; Rev. A. G. Wilson and wife of Darlington; Rev. O. W. Smith; Rev. Fred Harrison, and Rev. Denny.

The program of this morning opened at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises led by Rev. Graf. Rev. Stevens, Beloit, gave a brief outline of the purposes of the conference. Last week one was held in Beloit, and it was their hope, he said, that in meeting the clergy and talking over these vital matters with them, they might gain a new impetus in the program of the movement and receive suggestions concerning a definite program to be carried out in their churches. He demonstrated the fact that the Congregational church was doing very much about as much as they ought to do. He said they were strong in education, reform movements, and social welfare work, but they were weak in some measure their evangelization opportunities.

A stirring address was given at 11 o'clock by Rev. Ozora Davis, Chicago, who gave a heart to heart talk on "Evangelism." He emphasized the thought that if the church is the organization of Christ that the supreme engagement of every minister of the gospel is to bring the church to the people, or the people to the church. He showed that while the duty of the church might include safeguarding the morals of the young people and guiding the benevolences of the work of the church, yet its central thought was to bring men and women into a Christian life.

This afternoon there was a general conference on Evangelism conducted by Rev. J. A. Melrose. Rev. O. W. Smith spoke on "Organizing the Church for Evangelism," and Rev. Denny outlined a program for Holy week.

Over 500 people jammed the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night at the big holiday program given as "Open House" to show the work being accomplished by the association. The three hour entertainment included a number of theatrical gymnastics stunts, and a basketball game between the All Stars and the Beloit Greyhounds.

Under the leadership of S. Phelps boys' sportsman who himself acted as schoolmaster, a district school force was presented. Characters of every description dressed in modern costumes presented the work of Thomas Nuzum, George Sprackling, Harry Pierce and Elliot Dobson was especially good. Mr. Phelps made an ideal schoolmaster.

An exhibition by 30 boys of the junior department was given in the gymnasium under the direction of Physical Director Craig. Their execution of marching drills and rifle movements, ten members of the leaders' club, dressed uniformly in new costumes, won applause for clever work on the exercises and particularly on the march and rifle movements.

Emil Schwieger, formerly a gymnastic instructor, displayed wonderful ability in similar feats. The All-Star Beloit basketball game closed the program.

PLAYGOERS LEARN THE "GLAD GAME"

Eleanor H. Porter's Glad Game, "Pollyanna" Done Into Comedy Was Presented at Myers Theatre Sunday.

Those who attended the Myers theatre last night were treated to an evening's diversion that is bound to linger pleasantly in their memories for a long time. The play which was offered is known as the glad game. All the lovable characters of the famous book passed in review as living beings and sent one home with a smile and satisfaction from having learned the "glad game."

The comedy, like the stories upon which it is based, reflects exuberant enthusiasm at an opportune time when playgoers are in no mood for morbidity or salaciousness in the theatre.

The company interpreting the cheery text and characters of "Pollyanna" was personally one of a very high order. Miss Claire Morsereau said to be the youngest leading lady on the American stage, played the leading part, that of Pollyanna Whittier.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place. Most headaches, "biliousness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

Winsome Childhood.

The growing child frankly finds himself the most interesting person in the world, and we forgive him to some extent and attempt to show him that he must conceal his personal liking for himself. Some of us may recall the story of the little boy who had been a delightful listener while his mother (real here) told the neighbors of his cute little manners and ways.

LAWMAN'S BUSINESS

WHEN NEED DRIVES.

As long as Janet had her interesting, well-paid work as secretary to the tenementor, she could resist Roy Nicoll's munificent offer to become director of his magazine, with some show of reason. Although she told herself that Wait had nothing to fear from anything Nicoll could offer her, she knew that Wait would feel that he was battling for her against great odds—against Roy Nicoll and all he could offer. But she did not want her husband distracted from his work by any such thought. Her first and last concern was that Wait should have every chance to develop his career as a writer. She had refused Roy Nicoll's offer and tried to forget it.

But now that her work with David Temple had come to an end, the situation at home became a disagreeable dilemma, pressing for solution. Wait at once announced that he had applied for his old position with the advertising agency.

"Wait, I won't have you go back to that drudgery!" Janet protested. "You've already given up fifteen years of your life for your younger brother and his sister. I don't want you to go away from your life work. I won't have you postpone your own chance—least of all mine. I can get other work any day—and I will!"

Then commenced again the old discussion they used to have before marriage. Wait insisted on being the sole provider for the two. Janet determined to keep on with her own self-support. They effected a compromise.

Wait agreed to keep on free-lancing in return for which he was to be allowed to pay all expenses of their home until Janet found other work. Neither said anything about what was uppermost in their minds—Roy Nicoll's offer. Almost daily Nicoll besieged Janet with renewals of the offer and urged her to accept.

"I am just bewildered," Nicoll persisted. "Only on earth don't you take this splendid job!"

Janet evaded the question as well as she could. But she was finding it harder to do so; for soon she began herself that very thing. Offers of work she had many. But they were all pleasure and drab compared with the position she filled with the tenement house commission. Each day there loomed up all the greater the magnitude of the opportunity Nicoll was offering her for a big career.

In desperation Janet accepted a position as secretary to the head of a big clothing firm. After the varied, colorful, and socially significant work with the tenement house department, however, doing correspondence for a man who was manufacturing shoddy garments at fancy prices became intolerable to Janet. She found herself at once with repugnance instead of enthusiasm. Her employer noticed the effect in her work. Wait observed in her constant depression of spirits.

"Janet, dear, I simply won't stand your wearing yourself out this way!" he finally said one evening. "I've stood it long enough. I've gone back to my old job with Haines!"

Tears of surrender sprang to her eyes.

"You're doing it for my sake, dear!" she said. "I won't have it. I'm going to give you your chance to make good at free-lancing; it's—Wait!"

She cried suddenly, "I'm going to take the work Roy Nicoll is offering me!"

Paris May Again Lead Style World

By ELOISE.

With the same originality that gained for Paris the supremacy of the fashion world in the pre-war days, the city is again coming into its own. It is surprising how Paris dominated the fashions even during war times. The uniform, the cape, the short skirt, the practical, loose-fitting one-piece frock all emanated from Paris. Now come the smartest of hits and spring wearing apparel with every line and color decided by French. They are now and alluring and will tempt even the most ardent "made in America" devotees to indulge in at least one brilliant little chapeau from over-sea. The chic straw turban is just one of the many proofs that Paris is still able to design becoming styles. It is a small close-fitting hat of blue millinery, the dashing wings which are perched about the crown are of a darker shade of blue. The whole thing seems quite simple enough, but there is that certain something about it which stamps it as undeniably Parisian.

TESTED RECIPES.

Halibut Soup—Put two pounds of fresh halibut in a soup kettle with a bunch of parsley and one sliced onion. Cover with boiling water and let simmer for 20 minutes. Take the fish up, pick it free of bone and skin and mash the fish fine. Put three parts of milk in a double boiler; rub a little butter and four tablespoons flour together, add to the scalded milk and stir until thick; put in the fish and salt and pepper; heat and serve. Any fresh fish may be used instead of halibut.

Italian Salad—Wash a head of lettuce. Arrange baskets of lettuce leaves in cup shape. Into cup put sliced beets and a little celery. Across the top place some parsley; add salad dressing.

Mint Jelly—Boil one cup sugar and one cup vinegar for five minutes; add one tablespoon gelatin, softened in water to cover, one-quarter teaspoon each of salt and paprika; add ten drops of spearmint extract; set in pan of ice water and stir until the mixture begins to thicken, then turn into a jelly tumbler or small mould.

Spiced Jelly—A few leaves of lettuce, six red beets (boiled) and cut in small pieces, two cold potatoes diced, one onion, a little celery cut fine, two eggs (hard boiled), cold ham placed on top. Salad dressing.

Fruit Sauce for Cake—Drain the juice from a can of any kind of fruit, the fruit to be utilized for tomorrow's lunch. Heat the juice, adding more water or sugar if necessary or one-half cup of table syrup in addition. Thicken slightly with a little cornstarch mixed with a little cold water. Keep hot and pour over slices of sponge cake in individual serving dishes. Some of the fruit may be mashed and added if liked. In canning fruit always save bits of juice left from time to time and put up a few cans using the juice and less fruit and you will find it very useful in making various desserts.

Split Pea Soup—One cup well washed peas, one quart water; place over fire, add one-half teaspoon salt; let it come to a boil, add one-quarter cupful finely chopped celery, and add salad dressing and carrots, and a small bit of onion. Cover and cook three hours. Rub through a colander into another kettle and return to fire. Melt one tablespoon butter, add a tablespoon flour, rub until smooth, pour into soup. Add one cup of milk and a small amount of cream. Season.

Banana Tapioca—Four ripe bananas, four tablespoons granulated tapioca, four tablespoons sugar, four tablespoons currant jelly or any red tart jelly, one-half teaspoon salt.

Add the tapioca to four cups of boiling water slowly; boil 30 minutes; add sugar, jelly and salt; boil three minutes, or until jelly is dissolved. Skin and scrape the bananas; slice thin into ice cream parfait glasses or glass bowl; pour over hot tapioca; set in cold place. This can be served with whipped cream.

Stuffed Steak—Get a steak three-quarters of an inch thick, cut from the round. Make a dressing of bread crumbs, nuts and a little oil. Beat an egg, mix with dressing and roll, trying to keep it together. Bake until well done.

Lady Fingers—Six eggs, one cup sugar, one-quarter cup cornstarch, one cup flour, flavoring.

One day while the seething sun was sinking behind the hills, Gung Bhin saw his wife, Chaura, conceal a sweetmeat beneath her purples (blouse) and saw where the wife's hand was hiding, waiting to see what she brought him.

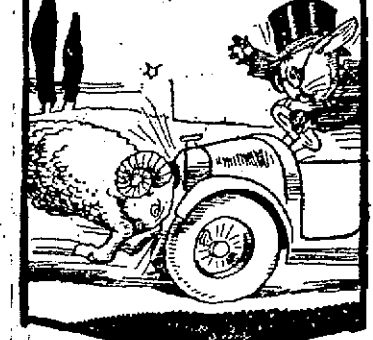

Seeing himself thus betrayed, Gung Bhin plucked a two-knife off a ban and tried to strike the wife murderously. And when Chaura peered the robber off his face, behold, his facial impression was upon it.

Thus, to India belongs the credit of making the first rubber stamp.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Now let me see. I had to stop so suddenly in the last story. Just as the old Billy Goat was scratching his left ear with his little stubby tail, that I hardly remember what he did after that. But anyway, before he did very much more Uncle Lucky said: "Tell me, Mr. Goat have you taken any soldier boys over in your ferryboat?"

"Lots and some more," replied the old goat captain. "And all the Bunny

Boy scouts went across yesterday with a life and drum corps. Flaps were flying and everybody was shouting:

"Good-by, boys, good luck to you. You're a dandy-looking crew! When the toeman sees your ranks He'll suspect the U. S. Yanks; He'll hug the day you come, With your musket, sword and drum."

"You don't say so," exclaimed Uncle Lucky. "Take us across." So he went back and got the Lucky-mobile and drove onto the old ferryboat, which creaked and groaned as it padded across the river, for it was an old-fashioned boat with great big paddle wheels on each side. And when they reached the opposite shore the little rabbits cranked up the Lucky-mobile and honked their horns three times and a half and away they went, over the bumps and over the stones until their teeth rattled and so did their bones. But they didn't care for they were so fat they couldn't have squeezed in a number nine hat.

Well, by and by they came to a place where there were a lot of sheep with little short tails and black noses. And one sheep, whose name was Mr. Ram, was very disagreeable and wouldn't let them pass. He stood right in front of the Lucky-mobile with his head down and his horns pointed right at the brass lamps.

"No, I won't," said the ugly old ram. "You have no right to ride over my meadow," and then he started to butt the Lucky-mobile. "Stop, I say!" cried Uncle Lucky. "You'll spill all the electricity." But Mr. Ram kept right on, and pre- soon, one of the lamps fell off and this made Uncle Lucky so angry that he threw a lollipop at the ugly old ram and hit him in the end of the nose. And next time I'll tell you what happened after that, unless the postman brings me a creamless bottle of milk instead of a bill from my friend, the tallorman.

SIDE TALKS

—BY—
RUTH CAMERON

A group of us were looking at some samples of silk which a very charming elderly lady had sent for, with a view to selecting the material for a gown.

"I like that," said one of the younger women, indicating a black silk with a tiny white dot. The owner of the samples bent over it. "Oh no," she said distastefully. "I don't like that. That's suitable for an elderly woman. It's too old ladyish. I shouldn't want it."

"Why, I thought it was just what I would like for myself," said the younger woman, with what I thought consummate tact.

A smile inside of me and I smiled a smile inside of me and paraphrased Pope's famous line: "Man never is, but always to be, old." (The man, of course, means woman too.)

What a blessing it is that this old age which most of us dread so (I'd like a dollar for every person whom I have heard say that he or she hopes never to live to be old—incidentally, I have noticed that all the people who utter that bromide are well under fifty (never, so far as our consciousness of it goes, really comes to us).

She thought her about a hundred. Old age is something always lying just beyond the dim horizon's utmost bound. At five it is anything adult. A woman told me her small piece asked her, when she was about twenty-five, how old she was. "How old do you think?" she countered, and the small piece gravely responded, "Oh, about a hundred."

And a dressmaker, told of a young girl sixteen who objected to some plans for a gown she was making her. "That," she declared scornfully, "would make me look like an old hag of twenty-three." That seems rather unusual for that particular age. When I was sixteen, most girls of that age longed to look older. I have a fancy somehow that youth is more in style than it used to be, and perhaps the moving pictures with their exploitation curls and youngness in general may have something to do with that. She Didn't Want to Lunch With an Old Lady.

To use one more illustration, another friend told me of inviting two elderly women of approximately the same age (so she thought) to lunch together. Whereupon, the younger of the two, a very outspoken old lady, wished to know why she had been invited to lunch with "such an, old woman as that."

I wonder, oh I wonder, if I shall ever know I'm old.

Discount All "Luck." Luck is a myth—a dyed-in-the-wool sham, a counterfeiter through and through—and the misguided individual who banks on "luck" to assist him or her in any enterprise or undertaking is simply reaching after the impossible.

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Why is it that so many fellows accost girls on the street? Is it because they are good-looking? Or because they want to meet them and don't know how? I am considered good-looking, but no one has ever accosted me. Am I too good-looking or too homely? I know I should be proud to think that no one tries to pick me up, but still it haunts my vanity in a way.

JERRY. Men who accost girls on the street are not looking for friends. If they were they would choose a more courteous way of making the acquaintance. To accost a girl is to insult her. Some girls are so much interested in men that instead of paying strict attention to their own business they stare at men, smile or turn around and look. This, of course, is an invitation.

A girl who dresses herself with a view to attract the attention of any or every man is also open to insults. A refined girl who does not expect anything so vulgar as to be accosted is rarely if ever annoyed. Conduct and clothes are at the bottom of accosting.

Never again feel slighted because you can walk on the street without being insulted.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I belong to a club whose members are six boys and six girls. One of the couples has been going together for over a year and was very much in love until the girl met an older man and started going around with him.

The boy felt terribly and told me that he loved her more than he could ever love another girl. I said I would help him out and so we made the agreement that we were to be together and pretend we were in love. For three weeks he did everything I told him to. We went a lot of places together and walked home from from school every night. Then the girl phoned him and asked when he was going to see her again. He said he would be there at eight and went right over.

I did not know I would care so much, but in the three weeks I was with him so much I learned to care for him, too. I don't want to give him up now, but what can I do?

LOUISE. The fact that you have made some one else happy is not sufficient compensation at such a time. There seems to be no other reward in store for you, however. Go with other boys and get all the enjoyment you can from their friendships. After a while you will care for some one else and forget the boy you helped.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: A certain boy and I have been friends for a long time. I have written him twice and he does not answer. He lives in another town, but always speaks when we meet. Do you think he is angry or just forgot about writing? I would like to write to him again. Should I?

BILLY. It looks to me as if the boy regards you as an acquaintance, but nothing more. If he were interested in you he would have written to you before this. Do not write to him again.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy 18 years old and have been going with a girl about my own age for eight months. Although I believe she is not engaged to a soldier she says she is not. She says she loves me dearly and I am sure I do her. Please tell me a way to find out if she is engaged to the soldier or not.

LONG BOY. Try to have faith in the girl's honor if you doubt her in this respect. Believe what she says unless the soldier returns and you have proof to the contrary.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

TEETH AND THE TOOTH. That old adage, "For every child a tooth," is as such, a cruel and preposterous as most of the other beliefs and teachings of ignorant old women.

The expectant mother owes it as a prime duty to herself and child to have her teeth properly cared for, to have any necessary dental work done, no matter what operative procedure that may entail, early in pregnancy, and to visit her dentist repeatedly during the waiting period, for the purpose of keeping the teeth in sound condition.

There are still too many dentists who pretend that it is not worth while to fill or otherwise treat the baby teeth of a child who is uneducated.

Ill-fitted or unreliable dentists, instead of standing on this vital matter, if he would postpone treatment of the temporary milk teeth "till the child grows," have them long caused the child to have nothing to do with him, for no competent dentist nowadays harbors any such antiquated notion.

Another cruel and utterly absurd superstition of the ignorant is that any dental work done for the mother in the expectant period is likely to have some pernicious prenatal influence on the child. The truth is that postponement or neglect of dental work needed by the mother is the only thing that is likely to have any pernicious influence on the child.

There is no danger whatever in necessary extraction of teeth at any time in the course of pregnancy. There is danger in attempting to postpone a necessary extraction.

There is no sense in administering lime salts, phosphates or other chemical substitutes purporting to be good for the teeth, while the mother is able to take food. These mineral elements are supplied in ample quantities, and in the most assimilable form, in most ordinary foods.

AND SO IT WAS.

(Great Inventions Series.)

Gung Bhin was a rubberer away down on a rubber plantation in the burglarious of Gharjoul, India, where he rubbed rubber.

The men who rub rubber are called "rubberers."

So Gung Bhin, the rubberer, would take a cake of rubber which another rubberer had pressed and he would cut it smooth and shiny until one could see one's face in it if one had the courage to look and could survive after seeing.

Many a Hindoo died that way. One day while the seething sun was sinking behind the hills, Gung Bhin saw his wife, Chaura, conceal a sweetmeat beneath her purples (blouse) and saw where the wife's hand was hiding, waiting to see what she brought him.

Seeing himself thus betrayed, Gung Bhin plucked a two-knife off a ban and tried to strike the wife murderously. And when Chaura peered the robber off his face, behold, his facial impression was upon it.

Thus, to India belongs the credit of making the first rubber stamp.

FOOD WILL PREVENT DISEASE

Food is always a better preventive of disease than serums, toxins or other drugs—but be sure the food is pure, clean, nourishing and easily digested.

Shredded Wheat

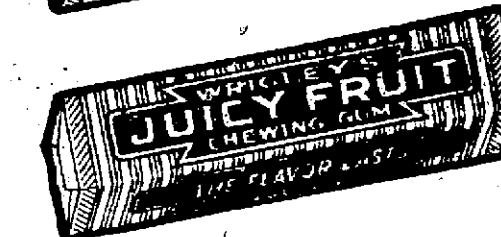

is the most thoroughly cooked cereal in the world. it is the whole wheat boiled in steam, drawn into filmy, porous shreds and then baked crisp and brown in coal ovens. Epidemics of disease may be traced to under-nourishment. Keep yourself fit by eating foods that fortify you against disease. Serve Shredded Wheat with hot milk or cream and fruits.

His Love Story

By
MARIE VAN VORST

"Bien, ma mere," with cheerful acquiescence, and immediately considered it and went to Tarascon, to the Chateau d'Esclignac. When his mother had suggested the visit he told her that he intended making up a party for the Mediterranean.

"Why don't you take your godmother and the American girl? Miss Redmond has an income of nearly a million francs and they say she is well-bred."

"Very good, ma mere."

When he saw Miss Redmond he found her lovely; not so lovely as the Comtesse de la Malne, whose invitation to dinner he had refused on the day his mother suggested the Chateau d'Esclignac. The comtesse was a widow. It is not very, very common to marry a widow, in the Faubourg St. Germain. Miss Redmond's beauty was different. She was self-absorbed and cold. He did not understand her at all, but that was the American of her.

One of his friends had married an American girl and found out afterward that she chewed gum before breakfast. Pauvre Raymond! Miss Redmond did not suggest such possibilities. Still she was very different from a French jeune fille.

With his godmother he was entirely at ease. Ever since she had paid his trifling debts when he was a young man, he had adored her. Tremont, always discreet and almost in love with his godmother, kept her in a state of great good humor always, and when she had suggested to him this little party he had been delighted. In speaking over the telephone the Marquis d'Esclignac had said very firmly:

"My dear Robert, you understand that this excursion engages you to nothing."

"Oh, of course, marraine."

"We both need a change, and between ourselves, Julia has a little mission on foot."

Tremont would be delighted to help Miss Redmond carry it out. Whom else should he ask?

"By all means, any one you like," said his godmother diplomatically. "We want to sail the day after tomorrow." She felt safe, knowing that no worldly people would accept an invitation on twenty-four hours' notice.

"So," the Duc de Tremont reflected as he hung up the receiver, "Miss Redmond has a scheme, a mission! Young girls do not have schemes and missions in good French society."

"Mademoiselle," he said to her, as they walked up and down on the deck in the pale sunset, in front of the chair of the Marquis d'Esclignac, "I never saw an ornament more becoming to a woman than the one you wear."

"The ornament, Monsieur?"

"On your sleeve. It is so beautiful. A string of pearls would not be so good."

more beautiful, although your pearls are lovely, too. Are all American girls Red Cross members?"

"But of course not, Monsieur. Are all girls anywhere one thing?"

"Yes," said the Duc de Tremont, "they are all charming, but there are gradations."

"Do you think that we shall reach Algiers tomorrow, Monsieur?"

"I hope not, Mademoiselle."

Miss Redmond turned her fine eyes on him.

"You hope not?"

"I should like this voyage to last forever, Mademoiselle."

"How ridiculous!"

Her look was so frank that he laughed in spite of himself, and instead of following up the politeness, he asked:

"Why do you think of Algiers as a field for nursing the sick, Mademoiselle?"

"There has been quite a deputation of the Red Cross women lately going from Paris to the East."

"But," said the young man, "there are poor in Tarascon, and sick, too."

"The Ornament, Monsieur?"

There is a great deal of poverty in Nice, and Paris is the nearest of all."

"The American girls are very imaginative," said Julia Redmond. "We must have some romance in all we do."

"I find the American girls very charming," said Tremont.

"Do you know many, Monsieur?"

"Only one," he said seriously.

Miss Redmond changed the subject quickly and cleverly, and before he knew it, Tremont was telling her stories about his own military service, which had been made in Africa. He talked well and entertained them both, and Julia Redmond listened when he told her of the desert, of its charm and its desolation, and of its dangers. An hour passed. The Marquis d'Esclignac took an antipractical stroll, Mimi miming at her heels.

"Ce pauvre Sabron!" said Tremont. "He has disappeared off the face of the earth. What a horrible thing it was, Mademoiselle! I knew him in Paris. I remember meeting him again the night before he left the Midi. He was a fine fellow with a career before him, his friends say."

"What do you think has become of Monsieur de Sabron?"

Miss Redmond, so far, had only been able to ask this question of her aunt and of the stars. None of them had been able to tell her. Tremont shrugged his shoulders thoughtfully.

"He may have dragged himself away to die in some ambush that they have not discovered, or likely he has been taken captive, la pauvre diable!"

"France will do all it can, Monsieur."

"They will do all they can, which is to wait. An extraordinary measure, if taken just now, would probably result in Sabron being put to death by his captors. He may be found tomorrow—he may never be found."

A slight murmur from the young girl beside him made Tremont look at her. He saw that her hands were clasped and that her face was quite white, her eyes staring fixedly before her, out toward Africa. Tremont said:

"You are compassion itself, Mademoiselle; you have a tender heart. No wonder you wear the Red Cross. I am a soldier, Mademoiselle. I thank you for Sabron, but we must not talk of such things."

He thought her very charming, both romantic and idealistic. She would make a delightful friend. Would she not be too intense for a wife? However, many women of fashion joined the Red Cross. Tremont was a commonplace man, conventional in his heart and in his tastes.

"My children," said the marquis, coming up to them with Mimi in her arms, "you are as serious as though we were on a boat bound for the North Pole and expected to live on tinned things and salt fish. Aren't you hungry, Julia? Robert, take Mimi to my maid, will you? Julia," said her aunt as Tremont went away with the little dog, "you look dramatic, my dear; you're pale as death in spite of this divine air and this enchanting sea."

She linked her arm through her niece's. "Take a brisk walk with me for five minutes and whip up your blood. I believe you were on the point of making Tremont some unwise confession."

"I assure you no, ma tante."

"Isn't Rob a darling, Julia?"

"Awfully," returned her niece absent-mindedly.

"He's the most eligible young man in Paris, Julia, and the most difficult to please."

"Ma tante," said the girl in a low tone, "he tells me that France at present can do practically nothing about finding Monsieur de Sabron. Fancy a great army and a great nation helpless for the rescue of a single soldier, and his life at stake!"

"Julia," said the marquis, taking the trembling hand in her own, "you will make yourself ill, my darling, and you will be no use to anyone, you know."

"You're right," returned the girl. "I will be silent and I will only pray."

She turned from her aunt to stand for a few moments quiet, looking out at the sea, at the blue water through which the boat cut and flew. Along the horizon was a mist, rosy and translucent, and out of it white Algiers would shine before many hours.

When Tremont, at luncheon a little later, looked at his guests, he saw a new Julia. She had left her coat with the Red Cross in her cabin with her hat. In her pretty blouse, her pearls around her neck, the soft flush on her cheeks, she was apparently only a light-hearted woman of the world. She teased her aunt gently, she laughed very deliciously and lightly flirted with the Duc de Tremont, who opened a bottle of champagne. The Marquis d'Esclignac beamed upon her niece. Tremont found her more puzzling than ever. "She suggests the chameleon," he thought, "she has moods. Before, she was a tragic muse; at luncheon she is an adorable sylph."

DINNER STORIES

An Irishman was engaged at stone breaking on the roadside, but not being much to the work, did not make much progress. A friend, who chanced to pass as Pat was vigorously laboring a large stone, tried to show him the right way. Taking the hammer he broke the stone with ease.

Said Pat: "Sure now, and it be easy for ye to break a stone after I have been softening it for the last half hour."

She was a four-flusher, particularly as to her ability in various sports.

"Do you golf?" he asked.

"Oh, I love golf," she answered. "I play at least 35 holes twice a week."

"And how about tennis?"

"I won the woman's championship in our state."

"And do swim?"

"The best I ever did was a half-mile straight," she replied.

Somewhat fatigued, he changed to literature. "And how do you like Kipling?"

"I kipped an hour only yesterday," was her unblushing reply.

Capt. Anderson Dana, who has just got married at Plattburgh, is a grandson of the journalist, Charles A. Dana, and in an interview he said:

"My grandfather believed in marriage. He thought it attended a man. I remember a story he used to tell."

"It's a story about a chap who asked a man:

"Have you ever heard anything about a machine for telling when a man is lying?"

"Sure," said the man.

"Have you ever seen one?" said the chap.

"Seen one?" said the man. "By gosh, I married one!"

How Long Must I Suffer From the Pangs of Rheumatism?

Is there no real relief in sight? Doubtless like other sufferers, you have often asked yourself this question, which continues to remain unanswered.

Science has proven that your Rheumatism is caused by a germ in your blood, and the only way to reach it is by a remedy which eliminates and removes these little pain demons from your blood. This explains why liniments and lotions can do no permanent good, for they cannot possibly reach these germs which infest your blood by the millions.

S. S. S. has been successfully used for Rheumatism for more than fifty years. Try it to-day, and you will find yourself at last on the right track to get rid of your Rheumatism. BRINGING UP FATHER was a fish hatchery. We used to trap the salmon that came up the Grafton stream and the Duffin creek to get the eggs and transfer them to the hatchery at Newcastle. What fish were spawned at the three different places were marked before they were liberated to return to the sea. I have seen a salmon after ascending the river to spawn return to sea. We had a special mark for each stream to mark the salmon that were caught in the three streams. We never know a salmon that had a Wilmot mark on it ever to re-enter the Duffin creek or the Grafton stream. Every fish seems to know its own particular stream. I have seen the same fish three years in succession, which shows that salmon have a natural instinct to return to the waters from which they are first hatched and liberated.

Milton Junction

Milton Junction, Feb. 24.—Miss Mary Henry was called to her home in Redburg by the death of her father.

Mrs. John Malone has received word from overseas of the death of her son, Camp Grant. Paul Greenman was at Camp to see him Saturday. George expects to be home soon. I have seen the bait laid down among the fish and lines made fast for the night, and not a fish would take it during the night. Fish will hang around a certain place where it has been customary to feed them. If fish are fed at a certain time of the day where it is customary for them to be fed, they make an effort to get close by when they think it is about feeding time.

Like to Celebrate. Fish at times like to have a day off for a celebration and go on dress parade. Most everybody knows who is interested in catching fish as a business in the larger lakes, that fish will gather in schools and make pilgrimages from one section of the lake to another. Perch and pike will form in close formation and go on dress parade by going around the lake in a column not more than two feet wide, and I have seen a column of perch in my judgment half-mile long all in slow movement and lined up like a regiment of men. This is often seen with the perch in the Fox river. Pike have been known to parade and where there are great numbers of them they will form columns of some four feet wide all lined up in close formation with most of the large fish on the outside like a lot of commanding officers, with the smaller fish in the center of column. This has been seen in Kawagonsa lake.

Near my boyhood home salmon entered three streams to spawn during the fall of the year, from Lake Ontario. The streams were about thirty miles apart. They were near Grafton, Ontario. On the Wilmot creek there see you and you can ring the bell until doom's day and the fish will not pay any attention to it. You can go to a pool where there are many trout and you may be able to catch a few or a dozen fish from the pool, where there are many trout and you may be able to catch a few or a dozen fish from the pool when they will get wise and quit biting. I have seen good live bait placed in among several large pike and muskellunge and go away for several hours and the fish did not touch them. Then again I have seen the bait laid down among the fish and lines made fast for the night, and not a fish would take it during the night. Fish will hang around a certain place where it has been customary to feed them. If fish are fed at a certain time of the day where it is customary for them to be fed, they make an effort to get close by when they think it is about feeding time.

Onon more undefeated Maroons and Gophers emerged victorious in Saturday's conference basketball games, the former five winning over Michigan 25 to 19 in a fast game at Ann Arbor. Its win over the Wolverines and over Iowa last week the Midway aggregation leads in the "Big Ten" race with nine victories. The Gophers have played only seven games but they have won every one and are still occupying the same berth with the Chicago gang.

After playing even in the first half, Minnesota broke loose in the last half in the game with Indiana and won by the score of 29 to 14.

With Mike Knapp and Clarence McIntosh, two men well known in Janesville, holding down the two forward positions, Wisconsin gave Northwestern a tough game at Patten gym Saturday night. The final score was Northwestern 22, Wisconsin 23. Although the Badgers failed to show much stuff in the first half they came back in the second half a finished team and outscored the Purple by four points. Knapp counted two field goals and five free throws while McIntosh dropped in one basket.

Purdue lost a hard fought game to Illinois 22 to 17. The boiler-makers were behind at half time 7 to 6.

1918 RACING GAME HIT BY INFLUENZA

Very few of the people who sit in the grand stand at a race meeting are fall and apply the light harness race performers at the finish of a closely contested heat have any idea of the magnitude of racing or the millions invested in race tracks or fair grounds between the Canadian track at Edmonton in the province of Alberta, where the horses appear in the long summer days, and the sandy tracks in Florida or the perfectly appointed grounds at Phoenix, Ariz., where a race meeting could be held on any day during the winter months. At the present time there are over 2,000 race tracks in the United States and Canada but only about one half of them are used regularly for race meetings each year.

In Progress 70 Years. Upon these courses and those which preceded them, the development of the trotter and pacer has been in progress for over 70 years. In established, while thousands enjoyed their spirited contests. Also that the memories of those turf battles never fade is evinced in the remarks of gray haired men and women who had the pleasure of seeing the old-time champions over courses that have long since become part of the cities, near which they were located.

Influenza Hits Gun. The magnitude of light harness racing in North America may be gauged from the fact that during the past two years 1,915 meetings were held in the United States and Canada. The returns for 1917 show 1,056 meetings, while in 1918 the number fell to 859. The reduction, however, was not altogether caused by the war, as many metes surmised, as while a few meetings were not given on account of it, the actual cause was the wet weather in September when so many large meetings were held and the epidemic of influenza which caused practically all of the fair and race meetings in the east and south after the first of October to be abandoned.

1917 Was Big Year. Of the 1917 meetings, 976 were held over half-mile tracks and 80 over the mile tracks, 46 of the latter being race meetings and 35 time record meetings. At these meetings there were 7,241 races in which 9,384 horses made 41,094 starts, while 477 time records were also reported. The premiums distributed amounted to $2,623,244, of which $2,279,042.79 were paid out on the half mile tracks and $343,568.55 on the mile tracks.

Decrease Last Year. Of the 1918 meetings, 806 were held on the half mile tracks and 55 on the mile tracks, 33 of the latter being race meetings and 26 time record meetings. At these meetings there were 5,432 races in which 7,788 horses made 31,811 starts, while 248 time records were reported. The premiums distributed amounted to $2,468,203.10, of which $1,848,231.71 were paid out on the half mile tracks and $619,951.39 on the mile tracks. By comparing these figures it will be found that the influenza epidemic which caused many associations to cancel their race programs and the epidemic prevented the distribution of almost half a million dollars among horse-owners at race meetings last year.

STARS SHOW SPEED AND DOUBLE SCORE ON BELOIT QUINTET

In a fast game at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night, the "Y" All Stars handed the Beloit Grayhounds a beautiful 22-11 trouncing. The game was played before a crowd that packed the gymnasium. All-right guarding on both sides helped to keep the score down. Ted Kager, lanky center of the Stars, was easily the star of the contest, dropping in seven field goals and two free throws. Marko, Grasslin and Luebke were strong on defense.

The hounds' spurt at the opening of the first half was short-lived. After scoring two long ones they rested and the Stars tore away, Kager counting two baskets and a free throw and Babcock dropping in one, ending the half 7 to 4.

The Stars threw down a basket barrage in the second period with the result that they ran the score up to 22, while the Beloit tossers racked up only half that number.

The scores: Stars, 22. Beloit, 11. Babcock, 11. O'Donnell, 1. Kager, 1. Grasslin, 1. Luebke, 1. Trevis, 1. Field goals—Kager, 1. Babcock, 1. Grasslin, 1. O'Donnell, 1. Free throws—Kager 2 out of 3; O'Donnell 1 out of 1.

Referee—Charles Hager. Timekeeper—Erie Ross. Scorekeeper—Howard Gage.

Tuesday night after employed boys' class, the "Y" All Stars will meet the Badgers. The Stars have defeated the Badgers once before, and a fast game is expected. No admission will be charged. Saturday, March 1, the Stars will bring the Edgerton team here. Both teams have won one game apiece and a fast contest is expected. It may be possible to bring the Milwaukee Apprentice team here March 1 for a game, but the game is not sure yet. March 15 the Stars travel to Beloit to meet the Winnebago at the "Y". The Stars defeated them before by 3 points.

CHURCH BASKETBALL BY DAILY GAZETTE

A silver cup will be offered by the Gazette to the winners in the church basketball league, to be formed at a meeting of church representatives at the Y. M. C. A. tonight. At least six churches are expected to enter the league, and possibly eight teams will compete, according to Physical Director Craig, who stated this morning that sentiment for formation was strong.

At tonight's meeting it is expected that the routine of the league's formation will be taken up and completed and the schedule made out. Games will probably start within a week. If the high school and Congregational church gymnasiums can be secured, in addition to the Y. M. C. A., three games will probably be played weekly.

The church league in the past has proven one of the most popular sports of the year. Several years ago competition became so keen that the crowds who came to witness the contests could hardly be accommodated. There is sufficient material in the city, Mr. Craig states, to run the league at its former high standard.

The cup presented by the Gazette will go to the team winning this year's tournament, and will remain in the hands of that team until the winner the following season is decided. The cup will become the property of the first team winning the tournament three times.

Representatives of all churches interested in the proposed league are expected to attend the meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tonight at 7:30.

GAME TONIGHT DECIDES "Y" BASKETBALL RACE

The game between Hager's Reds of the employed boys' league and Newman's team of the high school class league for the championship of the Y. M. C. A., postponed Friday on account of the high school contest at Edgerton, will be played tonight. Both teams won first place in their respective leagues and are anxious for the deciding contest. The employed boys have organized and are attending the game in a body to cheer their team. A number of Newman supporters are also expected.

Newman and Burpee have shown good form for the high school league and Hager is proving the backbone of the employed boys organization.

The probable lineup is: Hager's: Burpee, 12; Manther, 11; Earle, 11; McCluskey, 11; Smith, 11; Sullivan, 11; Aller, 11; Luebke, 11; Newman: Burpee, 12; Manther, 11; Earle, 11; McCluskey, 11; Smith, 11; Sullivan, 11; Aller, 11; Luebke, 11.

WHITING OWLS WIN OVER CAMP GRANT

The Whiting Owls secured revenge from Camp Grant, Saturday night, winning by the score of 48 to 26. The game was a real battle from whistle to whistle. Henshaw, lanky center for the soldiers, was banished from the game for excessive roughness. He and 190-pound Cochran of the Owls came close to staging a bout in the middle of the floor. "Hemmie" caged four baskets while his man dropped in nine.

Fish Are Wise "Birds" When They See Line Fastened To Bait; Go On Dress Parade

By JAMES NEVIN

Division of Fisheries, Wisconsin Conservation Commission.

I have been interested in fish and have had them under my observation under natural conditions in connection with my work and in ponds under my close supervision for the past 47 years.

Black bass and carp are the most common of any variety of fish. Was it ever your good fortune to drive up to a lake in the north woods with a boat on a wagon and while the men were unloading the boat and making preparations to get ready to do some fishing on the lake, for you to get ready and go down to the water's edge and cast a hook in the water and the first cast land a bass? If you cast a second or third time, you will invariably get a fish.

If Captain Vance who is the best black bass fisherman that I know was along, he would exclaim, "The fish are at home." With great glee you get into the boat, and commence fishing and for an hour or more you do not get a strike of a fish. It makes you think that the fish in the lake have a wireless under the water and have been notified that there is an enemy within their gates and to beware. Black bass will protect their nests after the eggs are laid and until fry are hatched, keeping away all intruders more than any other variety of fish.

Bass Take Squint at Bait. Did you, Mr. Angler, ever do any fishing for bass in a clear water lake, such as Little Trout Lake in Vilas county, where you could look down in the water and see you bait some 15 or 20 feet in depth and see from 15 to 20 bass standing back watching the bait on the hook, the eyes of the fish sparkling like diamonds in the water.

and making no effort or attempt to take the bait but watch the perch all the time. At least some two or three perch would make a quick move for the bait and then a bass would make a rush for the bait and get it. The bass got jealous of the perch and did not want them to have it.

Out in the open water of a lake or pond you get a seine around a lot of bass or carp, and it makes no difference whether they are large or small, as soon as they can feel the effects of the net in any way they will make an effort to go over the top. During still, calm weather you cannot get a bass or carp to lead into a fyke or pound net. If a good wind comes up the fish will start and go with the wind and if any of them strike the lead of the net they will follow the lead into the trap. Unless the bass are taken from the trap or pound net within a very short time after the wind goes down, they will gradually find the mouth of the tunnel of the net and work their way to freedom. Whitefish will also find their way out of a pound net.

Bass in Ponds are Tame. Bass in ponds become so tame that they will come and take frogs or other food from one's hands and jump after every frog that is thrown into the water. At the same time put the frog on a hook at the end of a fish line and cast the same into the pond, seven times out of ten they will not touch it.

I have seen many statements about ringing a bell and how the fish will come to where they hear the bell. This I take no stock in. Fish will follow you around the pond expecting you to throw some food to them. Stand back from the pond so that the fish cannot
